A young man with a black kippah and a white button-down shirt is looking down and slightly to the left with a thoughtful expression. The background is blurred, showing other people in a crowd.

For more than a century, Yeshiva University has educated our children and grandchildren, our teachers, Rabbis and communal leaders. The influence and impact of YU's Roshei Yeshiva, professors and faculty prepare the next generation of leaders with Torah values and market-ready skills to achieve great success in their personal and professional lives—to transform our communities and the entire Jewish world for the better.

Over the next five years, we have set an unprecedented goal of raising $613 million—the largest campaign for Jewish education in history—for scholarships, facilities, and faculty that will further expand YU as the flagship Jewish university for generations to come. Now is the time to honor your past and invest in your future.

WHAT EVERYONE NEEDS TO KNOW ABOUT PASSOVER

How to get rid of chametz, prepare your home and celebrate the holiday of freedom!

Passover.

Our miraculous exodus from Egypt.
The birthday of the Jewish nation.
The most widely observed holiday on the Jewish calendar.

Is there any other holiday in which we invest so much time, effort, energy (and elbow grease)?

This guide provides a clear, easy-to-read overview of the mitzvot and customs related to Pesach, as well as the terms associated with the holiday. Throughout this guide, the terms Pesach and Passover are used interchangeably. If you are unsure about any aspect of Pesach observance, just reach out to an Orthodox rabbi.

When is Passover?

We observe Passover from the 15th through the 22nd of the Hebrew month of Nisan.

Pesach 2022 falls on Friday night, April 15, and lasts through Motzo'e Shabbat, April 23.

It is forbidden to eat chametz beginning Friday morning, April 15. See page 4 for the corresponding zmanim (times).

Is my home kosher-for-Passover?

Keeping a year-round kosher home is not the same as a "kosher-for-Passover" home.

On Passover, eating chametz, or having chametz in your possession, is forbidden. (See "What is Chametz?" below)

The following are some of the special preparations that must be made for Pesach.

What does this look like in practice?

Cleaning

The entire home must be cleaned of all edible chametz. Check and clean out any place where chametz may have entered during the year. (If you have kids at home, this might mean under the beds, in the closets, and of course, in your car!) Either clean all toys or set aside designated clean toys.

Selling

Any chametz not removed from a Jew's premises before Pesach should be sold and the storage locations leased to a non-Jew, via your Orthodox rabbi. For guidelines on what can and should be sold, see page 30.

Different Utensils

Year-round cooking and eating utensils should not be used, and separate utensils should be purchased exclusively for Pesach use. (In some cases, year-round utensils may be kashered for Pesach use, in consultation with a rabbi.) Check out our "Kashering Primer" on page 42, for more details.

What exactly is chametz?

Practically speaking, any processed food that is not certified as kosher-for-Passover may potentially include chametz ingredients. See page 60 for a list of OU certified products that are, nonetheless, recommended for Passover.

Even foods with minute amounts of chametz ingredients, or foods processed on utensils or machinery that are used for chametz, are not permissible for Pesach use.

Practically speaking, any processed food that is not certified as kosher-for-Passover may potentially include chametz ingredients and should not be eaten on Pesach.

A smiling woman with dark hair and black-rimmed glasses is shown from the chest up. She is wearing a light pink button-down shirt. The background is a blurred library with tall wooden bookshelves filled with books.

BUILDING TOMORROW, TODAY

The busy days before Pesach – special mitzvot and customs

Have you turned your house inside-out, transformed your kitchen into an aluminum-foil-covered spaceship, and rescued all the lonely Cheerios from their dusty corners?

You're ready for the next step:

Bedikat Chametz

Bedikat Chametz means the “search for chametz.” We comb our homes for any chametz that we might have overlooked. This year, Bedikat Chametz will take place on Thursday evening, April 14. Any chametz found is set aside to be burned the next morning.

Burning the Chametz

On the morning of Erev Pesach, we burn the chametz. See page 4 for the latest time to burn your chametz.

The Fast of the Firstborns

Erev Pesach is a fast day for firstborn males (Ta'anit Bechorim). During the tenth plague, all the firstborns in Egypt died. G-d passed over the homes of the Jews and spared their firstborns. To commemorate this, firstborns fast on Erev Pesach. This year, the fast will be held on Friday, April 15.

Many congregations conduct a siyum. (The conclusion of a portion of Torah learning is a celebratory occasion that allows for a seudat mitzvah, a ritual feast). A siyum exempts firstborn males from fasting altogether.

This year, since the first Seder is on Friday night, all Seder preparations should be prepared before Shabbos, i.e.: maror, salt water, charoses, egg.

Maot Chitim – money for the poor

Before Pesach, there is a custom to give Maot Chitim (literally, money for wheat). We donate money to the needy to help them buy matzot and other food for Pesach. Visit ou.org/hunger to support the OU's Maot Chitim campaign efforts, where money is given to poverty-stricken families to help them celebrate the holiday with happiness and dignity.

Passover is Here – What You Need to Know

Not all the days of Passover are the same or have the same laws.

The first two days and the last two days

The first day (Friday night, April 15 through Motzo'ei Shabbat, April 16) and the last day (Friday night, April 22 through Motzo'ei Shabbat, April 23) are observed with Shabbat restrictions on work and creative activity.

The second day (Motzo'ei Shabbat, April 16 through Sunday night, April 17) and the seventh day (Thursday night, April 21 through Friday evening, April 22) are observed with yom tov rules and regulations.

Special reminder for this year

This year, the second night of Pesach falls on Motzo'ei Shabbat (April 16). Remember to say “Baruch haMavdil bein Kodesh L'Kodesh,” to allow you to use fire and prepare food for yom tov.

The Intermediate Days – Chol Ha'moed

The intermediate days of Pesach (Monday, April 18 – Thursday, April 21) are considered “semi-festive.” Although they are the “weekday” of the holiday, not all work, activities and crafts are permitted. The laws of Chol Ha'moed are pretty nuanced. An Orthodox rabbi will be able to give you detailed guidance.

Eruv Tavshilin

An eruv tavshilin should be made on Thursday, April 21, to allow for the preparation of food on yom tov that will be consumed on Shabbat. For more on eruv tavshilin, please see page 16.

BUILDING TOMORROW, TODAY

You've made it to the Seder! Now what?

Here's your overview of the mitzvot of the Seder:

The Seven Mitzvot of the Seder

There are two Torah obligations and five rabbinical obligations to perform during the Seder.

Torah Mitzvot:

1. Relating the story of the Exodus (Maggid—reading from the Haggadah).
2. Eating matzah.

Rabbinical Mitzvot:

1. Arbah Kosot: Drinking four cups of wine.
2. Maror: Eating bitter herbs.
3. Hallel: Reciting psalms of praise.
4. Afikoman: Eating an extra piece of matzah for dessert as a reminder of the Pesach offering.
5. Demonstrating acts of freedom like sitting with a pillow and leaning to the left when eating matzah and drinking wine.

The Seder Plate

The Seder plate is arranged with symbolic foods that follow the order of the Haggadah. The prepared plate is placed in front of the leader of the Seder, who gives out the various foods to each participant.

What do we put on the Seder plate?

1. Three whole matzot (next to the plate)
2. Charoset: a mixture of apples, nuts, wine, and cinnamon, symbolizing the bricks and mortar of ancient Egypt

3. Karpas: a vegetable (preferably parsley, radish, potato, or celery)
4. Maror: bitter herbs (may consist of romaine lettuce, endives, or pure horseradish)
5. Beitzah: a roasted or boiled egg
6. Zeroa: a piece of roasted or boiled meat or poultry
7. Salt water: Place a bowl of salt water for dipping the karpas near the Seder plate. Note: Salt water should be prepared before Shabbat.

Matzah

We are commanded to eat matzah three times during the Seder:

1. At the start of the Seder meal (with a special bracha)
2. For korech (Hillel sandwich) together with the maror
3. For the afikomen (at the end of the meal)

For details on the specific amounts and requirements see "Sizing Up the Seder" on page 14.

Four cups of wine

Red wine is preferred for the Seder. Each Jew is obligated to drink a cup of wine at four specific times during the Seder:

1. Start of the Seder, following Kiddush
2. Before the meal (after reciting the Haggadah story)
3. Following Birkat Hamazon (Grace after the meal)
4. After the completion of Hallel

For details on the specific amounts and requirements see "Sizing Up the Seder" on page 14.

Bitter herbs (maror)

Everyone is obligated to eat bitter herbs twice at each Seder:

1. A kezayit, dipped in charoset (maror)
2. A second, smaller amount, inside the matzah sandwich (korech)

Maror must be raw and unpreserved. Therefore, commercially prepared grated horseradish, which is packed in vinegar, may not be used for the mitzvah.

For details on the specific amounts and requirements see "Sizing Up the Seder" on page 14.

Telling the story of the Exodus and singing Hallel

We encourage young children to participate in the Seder to the best of their ability. It is customary for the youngest person at the Seder to ask the Four Questions.

We close the Seder with Hallel, which praises God and His special relationship with the people of Israel. The Seder traditionally concludes with singing (and dancing to) several lively songs that celebrate our treasured relationship with God.

When Passover ends

All dietary laws and restrictions remain in effect until nightfall of the eighth day of Pesach.

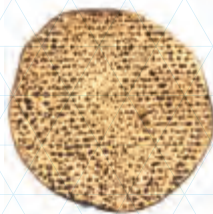

Chametz that was properly sold may only be eaten once the resale is confirmed by your rabbi (agent). Chametz that was in the possession of a Jew during Pesach is forbidden for consumption by any Jew, even after Pesach. ■

When Yom Tov precedes Shabbos:

THE what? & why? of Eruv Tavshilin

By Rabbi Moshe Zywica

Q. What is the reason for eruv tavshilin?

A. When the second or eighth day of yom tov falls on Shabbos (as the eighth day of yom tov does this year on April 23), or if Shabbos falls immediately after yom tov, it is rabbinically forbidden to cook or prepare on yom tov for Shabbos. When executed properly, eruv tavshilin allows us to prepare on yom tov for Shabbos.

Interestingly, there is no Torah prohibition to cook or bake on yom tov for Shabbos, even though ostensibly we may only cook on yom tov for yom tov itself. The Gemara (Pesachim 46b) offers two reasons why this does not constitute a Torah prohibition:

(a) Shabbos and yom tov are considered to be one unit, since the Torah refers to yom tov as Shabbos. Just as it is permitted to cook and bake on yom tov for yom tov, it is permitted to cook and bake on yom tov for Shabbos.

(b) When we cook or bake additional food on yom tov, it is not a Torah violation because it is possible that we will need the food for unexpected guests who might arrive on yom tov.

If the Torah permits the preparation of food on yom tov for Shabbos, why did the Rabbis institute the eruv tavshilin in the first place? The Gemara (Beitzah 15b) gives two explanations:

(a) When yom tov precedes Shabbos, we are prone to overlook the needs of Shabbos. The Rabbis therefore created a special, tangible preparation for Shabbos that must be attended to before the start of the yom tov, so people will remember to cook for Shabbos as well.

(b) If we were to permit cooking on yom tov for Shabbos without any reminder, we might not understand the reason, and think it is permissible to cook on yom tov for the subsequent weekdays as well; if done late in the afternoon this would violate a Torah prohibition.

Q. What is the procedure for eruv tavshilin?

A. On erev yom tov, Thursday April 21, set aside two types of food, one cooked and one baked (Mishnah Berurah 527:5–6). If you cannot obtain both items, a cooked item alone would be acceptable, but a baked item alone would not suffice. The cooked item must be at least the size of a large olive (k'zayit, approximately half the size of a chicken's egg) and the baked item should be at least the size of a chicken's egg (k'beitzah). Since not all cooked foods are eligible to be used for the eruv tavshilin, and the laws are complex, there is a common custom to cook an egg on erev yom tov specifically for use as the eruv tavshilin.

Hold the selected items while reciting the bracha and subsequent Aramaic text, as they appear in the siddur. You must understand the text as it is recited; if you do not understand the Aramaic text, recite it in your native language (Rama 527:12).

Q. When is the eruv tavshilin effective? Can I eat the eruv tavshilin food?

A. The eruv tavshilin allows us to prepare for Shabbos only on erev Shabbos, but not on a preceding yom tov day (Shulchan Aruch 527:13). In addition, every effort must be made to complete the preparations early enough on Friday afternoon so that the food will be edible well before Shabbos. Nevertheless, if the preparations were left until late Friday afternoon, they may still be done (Beur Halacha 527:1).

The food items used for the eruv tavshilin must remain intact as long as preparations are being made for Shabbos. Perishable items used for the eruv tavshilin should be stored in the refrigerator as needed. If the eruv tavshilin foods were consumed or discarded, the eruv tavshilin ceases to be valid (OC 527:15).

Matzah is used on Pesach as the baked item of the eruv tavshilin. It is customary to use this matzah for an additional mitzvah as one of the two “loaves” of lechem mishnah at each of the three Shabbos meals, and to consume the matzah at the third meal of Shalosh Seudos.

Q. If a person is planning to be fully prepared for Shabbos before yom tov starts, is an eruv tavshilin still necessary?

A. Rav Moshe Feinstein zt”l understands the opinion of the Magen Avrohom (O.C. 527:1) to be that it is not absolutely necessary to make an eruv tavshilin if you are completely prepared for Shabbos. Nevertheless, Igros Moshe (Orach Chaim, 5:20:26) notes that even if you are not planning to cook or bake on yom tov for Shabbos, an eruv tavshilin should be performed as a precaution for an unexpected need. Rav Moshe z”tl in Orach Chaim, 5:37:9, writes that a bracha should not be recited in such a case.

Q. What should be done if I forgot to perform an eruv tavshilin?

A. If you forgot to perform an eruv tavshilin on Thursday, you may rely on the eruv tavshilin performed by the rabbi of the city, since it is customary for him to include his entire community in his eruv. We may rely on this only if the eruv tavshilin was not forgotten due to negligence (Shulchan Oruch ibid). In addition, we may rely on the rabbi’s eruv one time (MB 527:22). The Kaf Hachaim 527:48 suggests that this limitation of relying on the rabbi’s eruv only applies to consecutive yomim tovim. However, the Chayei Adam (Klal 102:7) questions whether we may rely on the rabbi’s communal eruv a second time, even if they were not consecutive times.

Another option is to have someone who made an eruv tavshilin cook for the one who forgot. In this case, ownership of the ingredients must be transferred to the one who made an eruv and is allowed to cook. This person may then proceed to cook even in the home of the person who did not make an eruv tavshilin (Shulchan Aruch OC 527:20). ■

OF FOOD AND FREEDOM:

Navigating Pesach with Food-Related Conditions

By Shira Isenberg

Many powerful themes carry us through the holiday of Pesach:

The focus on freedom. The triumph of redemption. The call to remove leavened aspects of our souls and purify ourselves. The joys of tradition and singing and spending time with family.

And then there's the food.

As much as we emphasize the spiritual aspects of Pesach, we can't fully separate them from food. Hashem gave us very specific halachot regarding food on Pesach. It's a challenge for many to remove the chametz from their yearlong diets, even for just those seven or eight days.

But for some, this task is greatly magnified, since food significantly impacts their health and day-to-day lives. How do they navigate this holiday healthfully and with as little stress as possible?

Here's a close look at several common food-related health conditions and how to manage them over Pesach.

Irritable Bowel Syndrome (IBS)

Ella, 42, loves Pesach, but dreads the matzah. Its dry, crispy crunch is a harbinger of miserable days to come. Ella has irritable bowel syndrome, or IBS, a disorder of the gastrointestinal tract characterized by chronic abdominal pain and altered bowel habits. It's a year-round syndrome that can be aggravated over Pesach — specifically by matzah.

"Matzah can be very hard for people with IBS to digest," says Tamar Feldman, RDN CDE, a registered functional dietitian and founder of thegutdietitian.com. Instead, Tamar recommends whole wheat matzah for the additional fiber; however, even that is often not easily tolerated, especially in combination with wine or grape juice.

"Eat only what you need," Tamar suggests. "Ask your rabbi how much you need, and stick to just that."

To counteract some of matzah's impact on the gut, Tamar suggests that those with IBS drink twice their usual amount over the first few days of Pesach. For additional fiber, eat three fruits plus three to five cups of vegetables on the first days.

"Once you get past those first two days, many people actually feel better on Pesach than during the rest of the year," Tamar says. "A kosher-for-Pesach diet can be very healthful if it's done right and if you don't overeat." Not overeating is crucial. "For many people with IBS, much of their GI distress primarily comes from overeating and the late timing of large meals," Tamar says.

"Once you get past those first two days, many people actually feel better on Pesach than during the rest of the year. A kosher-for-Pesach diet can be very healthful if it's done right and if you don't overeat."

Inflammatory Bowel Disease (Crohn's and ulcerative colitis)

Those with inflammatory bowel disease (IBD) — a condition characterized by chronic inflammation and damage to the digestive tract — face similar challenges. And the solutions are also similar: Eat the smallest amount of matzah that is okayed by your rabbi; try gluten-free oat matzah; (gluten can exacerbate IBD); and eat fiber-filled food like fruits and vegetables.

Careful reading of food labels is essential, since matzah meal — and therefore gluten — can be found in foods you might not expect, such as tomato sauce. Look for the "non-gebroschts" label, which ensures a food is matzah-meal free.

Staci, who takes medication for her mild IBD, can essentially follow her year-round diet on Pesach too. The hardest part for her is that her regular fiber supplement contains wheat, and the substitute she has found doesn't work as well.

"I'll drink a lot and eat lots of vegetables to compensate, and I usually feel pretty good, thank G-d," she says.

Celiac Disease & Food Allergies

Margo's 18-year-old son has celiac disease, an autoimmune condition in which gluten (a protein found in wheat and other grains) cannot be tolerated. Back when he was first diagnosed at age 7, few kosher gluten-friendly options existed. Pesach — with its plethora of gluten-free foods — was a boon for their pantry.

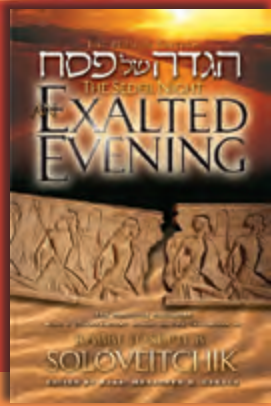

The biggest issue for people with celiac disease on Pesach is the matzah, which traditionally is made with wheat. Of the five grains that can be the basis of haMotzi, the only one that a person with celiac disease can eat is oats. However, oats can become cross-contaminated with wheat, so someone with celiac disease may react from eating oats that are not certified gluten-free.

A corollary challenge for people with celiac disease: matzah, matzah everywhere. "My husband will crack the matzah over a tin so it doesn't splatter crumbs all over. We'll pass it around the table in that tray," says Margo. "When we eat out, we ask the host to keep the matzah on the side."

Margo's 13-year-old son is allergic to peanuts (as well as tree nuts). During Pesach she must be especially vigilant about reading food labels,

Another strategy to help moderate the blood sugar ups and downs of the Seder is to eat before yom tov, preferably a snack with protein and fiber, like chicken soup with vegetables, or a small apple with a handful of nuts.

because food companies may change the ingredients, making a typically safe food off-limits for Pesach. For example, nuts are ubiquitous in Pesach products, even those you wouldn't necessarily expect to have nuts — like plain chocolate, for example.

Substituting safe alternatives for the food allergen is one workaround. For egg allergies, for example, a chia-based substitute can work. Per OU, chia seeds require checking against foreign materials.

To avoid potential problems for both her food-sensitive sons, Margo does all her own baking for Pesach. “When you're making meals at home, you know which ingredients are around and what you put in,” she says.

To find tips and tricks for managing, Margo encourages crowdsourcing; in fact, that's what prompted her to start her 6,000-member Facebook group, Kosher Me & Gluten Free.

“My best advice,” says Margo, “is to talk to other people and learn what they're doing to manage, so you're not dealing with it alone.”

Diabetes

Matzah. Grape juice. Matzah ball soup. Potato kugel. For someone with diabetes, a typical Pesach menu may look like a long list of carbohydrates.

Diabetes is a metabolic disorder that impacts the way people process carbohydrates in food. With Type 1 diabetes, the body doesn't produce insulin, the hormone that enables cells to absorb glucose from the blood. In Type 2 diabetes, cells become less sensitive to insulin, often requiring greater amounts of insulin to lower blood glucose. High glucose levels in the blood can cause long-term damage to multiple organ systems in the body. And dangerously high or low blood glucose levels can pose an immediate threat to an individual's health.

“With diabetes, whenever you're off your regular routine, it can upset blood sugar — and Pesach throws off your routine,” says dietitian and diabetes educator Rivka Breuer, RDN, CDCES. “Whether they take medication or insulin, people with diabetes need to be ready to adjust.”

That's why it's so important to plan ahead, Rivka asserts. “Ask your questions to your rabbi in advance: how much matzah do I need to eat? How much water can I add to the wine?”

General meal-planning guidelines for diabetes don't change over Pesach: skip high sugar foods like juice and soda; eat combination meals that include protein and fat, along with carbohydrates; choose plenty of fiber-rich foods like vegetables; and read labels carefully.

“I'm a big fan of frozen vegetables,” says Rivka. “They are so convenient, especially when there's only so much room in your packed fridge over yom tov.”

Another strategy to help moderate the blood sugar ups and downs of the Seder is to eat before yom tov, preferably a snack with protein and fiber, like chicken soup with vegetables, or a small apple with a handful of nuts.

Physical activity is a critical component of a healthy diabetes lifestyle over Pesach too. Even taking a walk after your meal can make a difference in your blood sugar levels, says Rivka.

Finally, as Pesach wraps up, it's important to review how the holiday went, healthwise. “Keep track of what worked for you — which products were well tolerated, which caused your blood sugar to skyrocket,” Rivka says. “Write it all down so you can look it over before next Pesach and get a head start. ■

Assuring Insect-Free Romaine Lettuce

By Rabbi David Bistricher

Romaine lettuce is commonly used for maror. This type of lettuce is known as an open leaf variety, meaning that as the leaves sprout forth from the ground, they begin to open up like a flower. Toward the end of their growth, the leaves begin to close around the stalk. Since romaine lettuce grows open, it is much more prone to insect infestation throughout the head than other varieties that primarily grow as a closed ball.

The insects most commonly found in open leaf lettuce are small black or green aphids and thrips. The leaves of the vegetable often camouflage these insects. The open structure of these vegetables allows insects to penetrate the entire head. Often, insects may be found between the innermost layers of leaves of an infested head.

Therefore, each leaf must be washed and checked individually. The use of a light box for checking lettuce can be extremely convenient and helpful. However, even if a light box is not used it is crucial to examine both sides of each leaf against a good source of light.

Occasionally, worms may be found in burrows within the body of the leaf. Look for a narrow translucent burrow speckled with black dots breaking up the deep green color of the leaf. These burrows will often trap the worm within the leaf. To rid the leaf of these worms, carefully slit the bumpy part within the burrow with a sharp knife and remove the worm. It is important to note that many of these varieties feature curly leaves with many folds in which the insects tend to hide. It is therefore recommended that they be washed and checked with extreme caution.

These two options for properly checking romaine lettuce, using a light box or a mesh cloth, are equally acceptable.

Light Box

1. Cut off the lettuce base and separate the leaves from one another.
2. Soak leaves in a solution of cold water and soap. The proper amount of soap has been added when some bubbles are observed in the water.
3. Agitate lettuce leaves in the soapy solution.
4. Spread each leaf, taking care to expose all its curls and crevices. Using a heavy stream of water or sink hose, remove all foreign matter and soap from both sides of each leaf. Alternatively, a vegetable brush may be used on both sides of the leaf.
5. Leaves should be checked over a light box or against strong overhead lighting to verify that the washing procedure has been effective. Pay careful attention to the folds and crevices in the leaf where insects have been known to hold tightly through several washings.

Mesh Cloth (washing lettuce and checking water)

1. Agitate and soak leafy produce for a few minutes in cold water containing vegetable wash.
2. Drain the water through a mesh cloth placed between two large strainers.
3. After draining the water, place the mesh cloth on a light box to inspect for any possible insects that were dislodged from the produce into the water.

The mesh cloth method of checking has become increasingly popular and can be a time saver, making it easier to check larger volumes of produce. ■

RAV HERSHEL SCHACHTER DISCUSSES PESACH

This year, OU Pesach Guide editors Rabbis Nachum Rabinowitz and Moshe Zywica had the opportunity to engage in a broad-ranging discussion with OU Kosher's longtime Posek, Rav Hershel Schachter shlita, on Pesach-related topics.

Moreinu Harav Schachter has served as a posek for the OU Kashrus Department for more than 30 years, instructing us in our daily execution of kashrus principles and enabling the OU to provide the food products that will grace so many of Klal Yisrael's Pesach tables.

We hope the insights gleaned from this interview will serve to illuminate your yom tov.

RR: To what extent are we obligated to maintain the customs (minhagim) of our ancestors? For example: generally, the minhag to avoid kitniyos is considered obligatory to Ashkenazim, but something like avoiding gebrochts (which is viewed as a chumra), is not; why is this?

RS: Generally, a halachically binding vow is something that is articulated verbally. However, when one repeatedly observes a good deed or a halachic stringency, it is considered like a vow unless one was careful to stipulate otherwise. There are also stringencies that communities or families adopted that are incumbent on members of that community or family to maintain, similar to a vow.

Kitniyos was adopted as an obligatory custom by Ashkenazic communities. Gebrochts was adopted as a stringency by various individuals, communities, and families. Depending on the nature of that undertaking by one's ancestors or community leaders, one may or may not be obligated to maintain that tradition.

If, however, stringencies were adopted only by individuals without the intent to obligate all community or family members, those would not be binding on community or family members and their offspring.

Under extenuating circumstances (shaas haDechak) one may dispense with otherwise obligatory customs.

RR: To what extent do we need to clean our homes in areas where chametz is not brought?

RS: The minhag is to completely clean the home, even to scrape the floors. However, halachically one only needs to clean those areas where chametz may be found. For small crumbs that may be found in hard-to-reach places, it is sufficient to nullify them after burning the chametz. Certainly, where there is great difficulty, no cleaning is necessary except where chametz is brought in the home.

RR: Do we need to research the potential chametz found in prescribed medications in tablet and capsule format?

RS: Medications that are tasteless can be taken on Pesach (these are considered inedible even for canines). One need not research the potential of kitniyos or chametz.

RZ: Should we recite Hallel in shul after Maariv on the night of the Seder?

RS: The Shulchan Aruch and the Vilna Goan both posit that one should say Hallel. The Rama writes that the minhag of Ashkenazim is not to say Hallel in shul. Where this will not conflict with the shul's established practice, it is admirable to say Hallel with a minyan and with a bracha.

RZ: Should all the attendees at the Seder (including women) recite Kiddush at the Seder?

RS: The attendees at the Seder (men and women) need not recite Kiddush and can fulfill their obligation by listening to the one who recites Kiddush. It is preferable for one person to recite Kiddush and be motzi all others.

RZ: Should women answer Amen to the Havdala recited during Kiddush at the Seder? Should they answer Amen to Shehechyanu, which they have already recited when they lit yom tov candles?

RS: Women may answer Amen to Havdala but should not answer Amen to the bracha Meorei HaEsh or to Shehechyanu.

RZ: How does the Rav recommend we interact with family members at the Seder?

RS: The Bnei Yissaschar writes that the purpose of the Seder is to gain an understanding of Hashem. This means that through telling the story of Yetzias Mitzrayim one should strengthen the awareness of the 13 Principles of Faith. He further notes that one of the Baalei Tosfos, who lived in England and whose family was not fluent in Hebrew, recited the Haggadah in English. Those who utilize the Seder to repeat vertlach and gematrios are missing this fundamental point. The Seder is the time to engage each family member on their level and in their language, utilizing the Haggadah to expand our awareness of Hakadosh Boruch Hu.

RZ: Is the Rav careful to finish the Afikomen before chatzos?

RS: I am careful to finish the Afikomen and Hallel before chatzos.

RZ: Should we recline during the Shulchan Aruch meal?

RS: One should recline throughout the Seder including the eating of the meal.

RZ: When eating Korech (the sandwich of matzah and maror) do we recite "Ken Asa Hillel" before or after Korech?

RS: One should recite Ken Asa Hillel after eating Korech. One should not speak between the brachos of matzah and maror and the completion of those mitzvos, including Korech. ■

A common method of relinquishing ownership of chametz is to sell it, typically through an agent (a rabbi) to a gentile. The chametz remains in the house, in a closed-off area (e.g. a closet) that has been rented to its new owner. After Pesach the rental period ends and the agent purchases the chametz back on behalf of the original owner.

This option is time-honored and halachically acceptable. Some, however, do not want to rely on such a sale for chametz that, on a Torah level, we are required to remove from our possession.

The Torah prohibition against owning chametz applies not only to obvious chametz such as bread, pretzels or cookies, but to any product that contains a chametz ingredient that constitutes a k'zayit within that product. Licorice, for example, which contains a significant amount of flour in its dough, would not be sold according to this position but should, instead, be eaten before Pesach, burned, or otherwise destroyed. Such products are considered chametz gamur – “real” chametz.

If the food is only safek chametz (that is, there is some doubt as to whether it is chametz at all), it may be included in the sale even according to those individuals who avoid the sale of chametz qamur.

The foods listed in the chart on page 31 are identified either as chametz gamur and, according to the stringent position, should not be included in a sale, or “not chametz gamur,” and may be included in a sale.

Many people who avoid selling chametz gamur nonetheless have a family custom to sell their whiskey. ■

2. Follow family custom.
3. Some opinions hold that, even according to the stringent tradition of not selling chametz gamur, provided the chametz is not distinguishable in the product even if it is present at more than a k'zayit, it can be included in a sale (Rav Yosef Dov HaLevi Soloveitchik, quoted in Nefesh HaRav, page 177).

CHAMETZ AFTER PESACH: WHAT, WHEN, AND WHY

By Rabbi Gavriel Price

The Torah not only prohibits consuming and deriving benefit from chametz during Pesach, it also prohibits its ownership. Once Pesach ends any chametz that had been owned, even if the result of deliberate wrongdoing, becomes, according to Torah law, once again permitted. The rabbinic authorities of the Talmud, however, introduced a penalty: chametz that was owned by a Jew during Pesach remains prohibited even after Pesach. Chametz that was owned during Pesach is referred to as chametz she'avar alav haPesach.

This prohibition applies whether or not ownership on Passover was intentional or unintentional. Although some poskim rule that the prohibition on the chametz applies only to the person who actually owned it, it is generally accepted that the prohibition applies to everyone else as well, including those who purchase chametz from a (non-observant) store owner who violated the prohibition of ownership during Pesach.

Several years ago, an Orthodox Jew who was fond of a particular brand of bourbon bought and stored many, many cases of it in his basement; the total worth approached $250,000. He later discovered that the owner and distributor of that brand is Jewish and had never engaged in a sale of his product during Pesach. Since deriving benefit from chametz she'avar alav haPesach is also prohibited, reselling his inventory did not appear to be an option (resolution of the problem came from a position that stated that bourbon, which is 51 percent corn, is not strictly speaking chametz; along with other technical considerations the man was permitted to resell the product).

Most of us don't face such high-scale problems. Nevertheless, it is worthwhile for all of us, when shopping after Pesach, to make well-informed decisions.

Many va'adim, or local rabbinical councils, provide a list to their constituents of local establishments that are recommended and those that are best avoided. Here are some of the considerations they make:

When a store is Jewish-owned, and the owner never engaged in a sale, at what point can we reasonably assume that the chametz now on the shelves appeared after Pesach and was never in the hands of the Jewish store-owner? The answer, in part, is that it depends on the product and its shelf-life. Bread has a shorter shelf-life than granola and will be restocked more frequently. By determining how often the fresh bread is restocked — simply speaking to a stock clerk may be a good start — we can determine whether the bread, or the granola for that matter, was restocked after Pesach.

Making an item-per-item evaluation at a supermarket... is not particularly practical. At one point, then, can we assume that any chametz on a store's shelves is from after Pesach?

Making an item-per-item evaluation at a supermarket, however, is not particularly practical. At one point, then, can we assume that any chametz on a store's shelves is from after Pesach?

Rav Yaakov Luban, senior rabbinic coordinator at the OU and distinguished rav of Ohr Torah of Edison, NJ since 1983, discussed this question with Rav Belsky zt"l many times. Although the prohibition against chametz she'avar alav haPesach is rabbinic, and there is generally a principle that, in case of a doubt, we may be lenient, it is not simple to apply that principle in a case where we know for sure that at one time all of the chametz in a given establishment was prohibited. "We know with certainty," Rabbi Luban once wrote (Jewish Action, Spring, 2009), "that at some point in time, most of the chametz in the store will be chametz she'avar alav haPesach. Because of our lack of information, we can't establish precisely (until) when that is. It is unreasonable to allow the purchase of chametz at all times when we know that, at some instance, the chametz is prohibited." In other words, until we are confident that the majority of the products in the store are not chametz she'avar alav haPesach, we must avoid purchasing chametz items from such a store.

A further consideration: supermarkets do not always receive their products directly from manufacturers. For many items, supermarkets depend on food distributors. A grocery distributor plays the role of supply chain guarantor, providing stability and predictability in supply. A key factor in providing predictability involves short- to medium-term storage of those goods. According to the Food Marketing Institute (FMI), the average amount of time that a grocery distributor holds product is 37.3 days.

One of the major grocery distributors in the United States is a Jewish-owned company that continues buying and selling inventory during Pesach.

Based on these considerations, many rabbanim therefore suggest waiting until after Lag B'Omer before purchasing chametz from supermarkets that are either Jewish-owned or rely on Jewish distributors.

One of the responsibilities of a local va'ad is to supervise, as well as act as power-of-attorney, for the sale of chametz of local Jewish establishments before Pesach. Many rabbanim craft creative and reliable arrangements. What if a supermarket or distributor engaged in a sale, but nevertheless violated the terms of the sale by continuing to replace inventory and sell existing inventory during Pesach?

One of the main controversies among 20th-century poskim relates to such cases. Many poskim fundamentally oppose the sale of Jewish-owned businesses that sell chametz on Pesach. The seller is clearly not sincere about the sale. For this reason, Rabbi Joseph B. Soloveitchik (1903–1993) and others considered sales involving supermarkets that sell chametz to customers on Pesach to have no validity and the chametz that had ostensibly been the basis of the original sale remains chametz she'avar alav haPesach. Nonetheless, Rav Moshe Feinstein (Iggerot Moshe, OC 1:149, 2:91 and 4:95) defended this transaction. He justified it on various grounds, one of which is that halachah does not take into consideration private thoughts (“devarim shebelev”) that are not verifiable (in this case the “thought” that is not verifiable, and that would have otherwise undermined the authenticity of the sale, is that the Jewish owner never had intention to sell). Furthermore, it is conceivable that the store owner prefers to transfer ownership of his chametz to a non-Jew so his religious customers can shop freely in his establishment after Pesach, even though he intends to continue selling chametz merchandise during Pesach. The OU follows the more stringent position of Rav Soloveitchik.

Many rabbanim therefore suggest waiting until after Lag B'Omer before purchasing chametz from supermarkets that are either Jewish-owned or rely on Jewish distributors.

Publicly traded companies are generally considered permissible. Amazon is a publicly traded company. There are, however, three arrangements that Amazon provides:

1. Amazon owns and ships the product. “Sold by Amazon, Shipped from Amazon” indicates they provide both these services.
2. An independent supplier owns and ships the product. “Sold by Ploni, Shipped by Ploni” indicates that the owner only uses the Amazon as a platform for sale.
3. An independent supplier owns the product but Amazon is the shipper (“Sold by Ploni, Shipped by Amazon”).

In case 1 there is certainly no concern about Jewish ownership; in cases 2 and 3, since the owner of the product is independent, theoretically the ownership could be problematic. If we can easily determine that the company is Jewish owned (for example, through an online search), we should follow the guidelines above regarding other Jewish-owned stores. Otherwise, assume that the owners are not Jewish and the product is acceptable.

Finally, chametz she'avar alav haPesach refers to any chametz that contained at least a kezayit (0.91 ounces) of chametz in a container. This applies to obvious chametz, such as pretzels, cereal, and cookies as well as licorice, in which the flour represents a significant portion of the product. Corn Flakes and Rice Krispies contain malt. Although in a given package of cereal there is less than one kezayit of malt, since the malt is more than one-sixtieth of the volume of the product, some poskim suggest that the product is considered chametz and is a candidate for chametz she'avar alav haPesach (see Biur Halacha 447: end). Whiskeys based on chametz, as well as beer, are subject to the prohibition. Kitniyot is not subject to the prohibition. Vinegar, in the United States, is made from kitniyot. ■

How the Pros Prepare for the Chag

By Rabbis Avrohom Juravel & Dov Schreier

EVALUATION

Turning over our homes and personal kitchens for Pesach can be an arduous task. Effectively achieving this in a foodservice (restaurants, catering, hotels) setting can be all the more so.

Please join us as we assess and prepare a foodservice location for Pesach:

EVALUATION CHECKLIST:

- ☐ Take a complete inventory of kitchens and equipment.
- ☐ Determine suitability for kashering each vessel.
- ☐ Establish the kosher protocol. Procedures must be recorded in writing and approved by the venue.
- ☐ Designate meat and dairy kitchens. Determine if a pareve kitchen is required. Each designated kitchen will need completely separate facilities (refrigerators, ovens, etc.), including dishwashing and pot-washing areas.
- ☐ Facility must include sufficient space for vegetable inspection and preparation, including adequate lighting.
- ☐ If there is only one dishwasher, only one set of dishes (meat or dairy) will be allowed.
- ☐ Determine access from kitchen facilities to dining facilities. Identify distinct food transport apparatus (i.e. carts, trays).
- ☐ Set a schedule for kashering. Each facility should be kashered together. Facility should not be left in a partially kashered state. Any unkashered equipment must be completely segregated from the facility.
- ☐ Pilot lights must be functional to help ensure against bishul akum (food cooked by a non-Jew). Oven door sensors must be bypassed so the oven will remain on when door is opened.
- ☐ Determine if there is steam return to the boiler or not.
- ☐ All utensils must be clearly marked before being used (after tevilah).
- ☐ Employee eating facilities must be completely separate from kashered facilities.
- ☐ Simulate the operation from start to finish, including ingredient receiving, food prep, cooking, serving, clean up, and utensil washing. Anticipate how parallel processing (meat, dairy, pareve) can impact each other.

SUPPLIES

KASHERING SUPPLIES LIST:

- ☐ Propane torches large and small
 - ☐ Insulated welding gloves
 - ☐ Charcoal, not self-igniting
 - ☐ 3 different colors of masking tape
 - ☐ Aluminum foil
 - ☐ Cellophane wrap
 - ☐ Pliers
 - ☐ Screwdrivers
 - ☐ Scrapers
 - ☐ Oven cleaner
 - ☐ Steel wool
 - ☐ Rags

“KOSHER” ENVIRONMENT – Not Just Kosher Food

- ☐ Does the hotel swimming pool allow for separate and private men’s and women’s swimming?
- ☐ Can an eruv be established around the perimeter of the hotel property?
- ☐ Do hotel rooms have manual locks or only electronic locks?
- ☐ Does the hotel have the ability to offer a Shabbos elevator?

ADMINISTERING THE PROGRAM

- Clear scheduling and position assignments to the squad of mashgichim so they may function as a team without leaving gaps in supervision.
- Assure that there is training and clearly written instructions (multilingual) for kitchen staff and servers, with kashrus protocols. Protocols must address segregation of foods and utensils to their designated kitchens, use of product only following mashgiach approval, and restrictions against bishul akum. Workers must also understand the basic restrictions that relate to Shabbat and yom tov and hachana (preparation from one day to the next).
- All food deliveries must be checked by the mashgiach before entering the building. Mashgiach should have his own set of stickers (e.g. Hello Kitty stickers available in dollar stores) to put on approved products. All unwashed and unchecked vegetables must be isolated from those that have been approved for use. Approved ingredients should be clearly marked by mashgichim and only used thereafter.
- Menus must be checked to ensure that there is sufficient time between meals (i.e. meat - dairy, hard cheese - meat).
- All Shabbat food (except cholent) must be fully cooked before the onset of Shabbat. Grinders, slicers, mixers, et cetera not permitted for use on Shabbat must be secured so kitchen staff cannot make use of them accidentally or out of habit.
- Ensure that when water is added to urns on yom tov, it is done in compliance with holiday restrictions and does not trigger the ignition of heating elements. Make sure that there is sufficient hot water for Shabbos. Inlet valve must be closed before Shabbos.

SOLICITING DIVINE HELP

As with any hashgacha, especially one fraught with so many challenges and upon which hundreds of thousands of Jews depend, we must recite a prayer for s'yata dishmaya (Heavenly assistance) for a joyous and kosher Pesach. ■

ADMINISTERING

THE SIMPLY JEWISH HAGGADAH

“This is a wonderful work and one must say to the author, “yasher koach”-more power to you.”

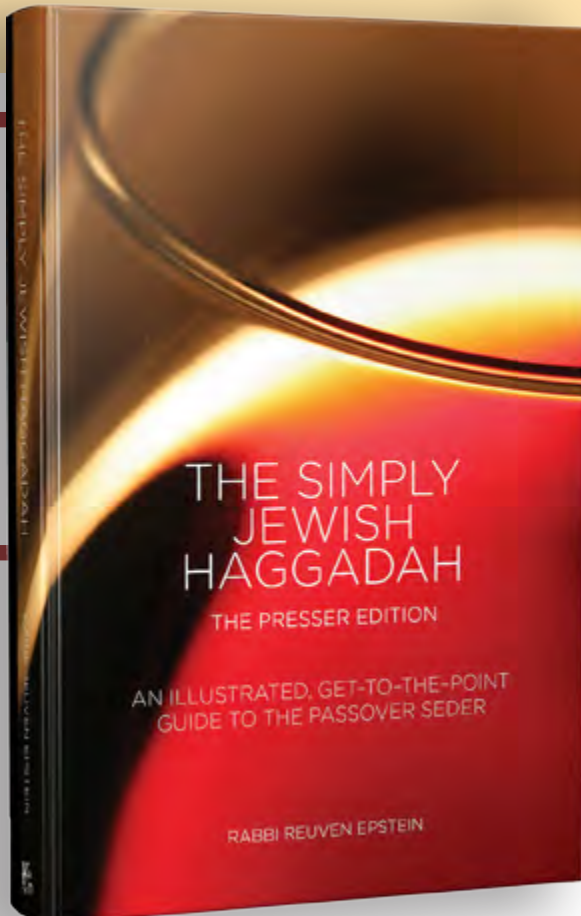

– Rav Dovid Cohen, Congregation Gvul Yaabetz

“No longer just a recounting of an ancient tale, but a relevant modern-day experience with profound lessons for our lives today.”

– Lori Palatnik, Director of The Jewish Women’s Renaissance Project

“Whether you are a novice or have been attending Passover Seders for many years, The Simply Jewish Haggadah will help you and your family have a more meaningful and authentic Seder. It guides you through the Seder, telling you what you are supposed to do, when you are supposed to do it, and most importantly, why we perform the various rituals.”

HOW TO MAKE YOUR KITCHEN KOSHER-FOR- PASSOVER, EVEN IF YOU'RE NOT A RABBI

Safety Warning:
Kashering Involves High Heat!

By Rabbi Eli Gersten

ONE OF THE MOST DAUNTING

PREPARATIONS we make for Pesach is kashering, a process to prepare chametz utensils for Pesach use. As with all areas of halachah, those who are unsure of how to apply the rules of kashering to their situation should consult an Orthodox rabbi.

The Torah (Bamidbar 31:23) requires kashering utensils acquired from a non-Jew, as they are presumed to have been used in non-kosher cooking (and will have absorbed non-kosher flavor). Since chametz on Pesach is also forbidden, the Talmud applies the laws of kashering to chametz as well. There are four basic methods of kashering. The prescribed method depends on the utensil and how it was used.

LIBUN GAMUR (BURNING)

Utensils used directly in the fire (e.g. BBQ grate), must be kashered by placing them into fire. This process has the effect of burning away any absorbed taste. To qualify as a complete libun, metal must be heated until it glows. A self-clean cycle of an oven (approx. 850° F) also qualifies as libun. There is no need to wait 24 hours before libun, though it is advised. There is no need to scrub the utensil before performing libun, since the fire will burn off residue, but some cleaning is advised.

HAGALAH (BOILING)

Utensils that were used to cook non-kosher liquid can be kashered with hagalah (boiling in water). To prepare the utensil for hagalah, the utensil must be thoroughly cleaned. Only utensils that can be scrubbed clean should be kashered. Items that have narrow cracks, crevices, deep scratches or other areas that cannot be cleaned, cannot be kashered for Pesach. The following, for example, cannot be kashered for Pesach: pots with rolled lips, bottles with narrow necks, filters, colanders, knives (or other utensils) where food can get trapped between the blade and handle. After cleaning, the utensils should then be left idle for 24 hours. To kasher, every part of the utensil must make contact with boiling water. This process can be done in parts. For example, a large spoon can be immersed into a pot of boiling water for 10 seconds, turned over and then the remainder immersed. When the utensil is removed from the boiling water, it should be rinsed off in cold water. While strictly speaking these utensils may be kashered in a clean non-Pesach pot that was not used for 24 hours, the minhag, however, is to kasher the pot first, by boiling water in the pot and discarding.

IRUY KLI RISHON (POURED BOILING WATER)

If the utensil only came in contact with hot liquid being poured on it (iruy), it can be kashered in the same manner. If the utensil came in contact with hot chametz solids, then one should kasher by pouring boiling water accompanied by an even melubenet, a heated stone. For example, if hot pasta fell into a sink, stones should be heated on the stove, and moved around the surface of the sink while boiling water is poured over them. In this way, the water will remain boiling on the surface of the sink. The stones may need to be reheated several times, since they cool down quickly. In all other aspects the process is identical to hagalah.

LIBUN KAL (LIGHT BURNING)

In certain cases, libun kal is sufficient. This can be accomplished by heating in an oven at 550° F for one hour. This method of kashering can be used in place of hagalah. It is also used when the need for libun is only an added stringency.

NOT EVERY MATERIAL CAN BE KASHERED.

Ceramic, such as china, and enamel coated pots cannot be kashered. It is the custom of Ashkenazim not to kasher glass as well. Some poskim do not permit kashering plastic or other synthetic materials for Pesach; however, the opinion of the OU rabbanim is that it may be kashered, if there is a need. Ask your rabbi for guidance. Composite stone (e.g. quartz counters) which is made mostly of stone, but is held together with resin, can be kashered. As a rule, materials such as metal, wood, stone, natural rubber, and fabric can be kashered. ■

SOME HELPFUL TIPS:

It is recommended that one not wait until erev yom tov to run the self-cleaning cycle to kasher an oven, as this is known to be hard on the oven and repairs may be required.

Some newer self-cleaning ovens employ Aqualift technology that cleans at low heat; they should be considered like non-self-cleaning ovens (see The Modern Kitchen on page 44 for details).

Please note that kashering may discolor oven racks and stovetop burners. If racks have rubber wheels, the wheels may melt. Replacement racks for Pesach should be ordered well in advance of the holiday.

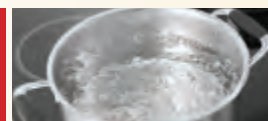

KASHERING CHECKLIST:

LIBUN GAMUR

- ☐ Surface must be heated to a dry temperature of approximately 850° (i.e. self-clean oven) or until it begins to glow.

HAGALAH

- ☐ Surface should be completely cleaned with hot water and unused for 24 hours.
- ☐ Surface should be completely clean and dry.
- ☐ The utensil should be completely submerged in a pot of boiling water.
- ☐ Cold water should be poured over surface.

IRUY KLI RISHON

- ☐ Surface should be completely cleaned with hot water and unused for 24 hours.
- ☐ Surface should be completely clean and dry.
- ☐ Boiling water should be poured directly over all surfaces followed by cold water poured over the entire surface.

LIBUN KAL

- ☐ Surface should be completely cleaned with hot water and unused for 24 hours.
- ☐ Surface should be completely clean and dry.
- ☐ Surface should be heated to a dry temperature of 550° F (i.e. oven) for a minimum of one hour.

THE MODERN

KITCHEN

SILVERWARE, POTS & OTHER SMALL ITEMS

HAGALAH (boiling in water)

Rolled lips, seams or cracks that cannot be cleaned will require torching of those areas. Utensils should be immersed one at a time into a pot of boiling water that is on the fire. Water should be allowed to return to a boil before the next item is placed in the pot. The pot can be non-Passover, provided it is clean, has not been used for 24 hours, and water is first boiled in the pot and discarded. Larger items can be submerged in the water one part at a time. Utensils should then be rinsed in cold water.

GAS STOVETOP LIBUN (burning) &

COVER The stovetop surface and grates should be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours.

The stovetop surface should be covered with foil. The stovetop grates can be replaced or they should be burned out in the oven @ 550° F for one hour.

ELECTRIC STOVETOP LIBUN

(burning) & COVER The stovetop surface should be cleaned well and covered with foil. The burners should be turned on until they glow red.

GLASS STOVETOP CANNOT BE KASHERED & MUST BE COVERED*

The stovetop surface should be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours.

During Pesach, pots should not be placed directly on the stove surface, but rather an aluminum (or other metal) disk should be placed directly under the pot.

The entire glass top surface should not be covered as this might cause it to overheat and crack.*

STAINLESS STEEL SINK

IRUY (pouring boiling water)

Remove drain. [It is recommended that the drain be replaced. If this is difficult, it may be used if the drain has large holes that can be completely scrubbed clean].

It is preferable to kasher a sink by pouring boiling water in conjunction with an even melubenet (a heated stone). In lieu of kashering with a heated stone, some will place a rack on the bottom of the sink, or use a sink insert.

CERAMIC SINK

CANNOT BE KASHERED AND MUST BE COVERED

The sink should not be used with hot water for 24 hours.

The sink should be completely clean and dry.

The sink should be covered with layers of contact paper or foil; it is best to purchase a sink insert.

KEURIG COFFEE MAKER

HAGALAH OR IRUY (pouring boiling water) (for those who kasher plastic) The coffee maker must be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours. Remove K-cup holder and perform hagalah or iruy on K-cup holder. Run a Kosher-for-Passover K-cup in the machine (this will kasher the top pin).

HOT WATER URN, WATER COOLER

IRUY (pouring boiling water)

Urn only used for heating water: Run hot water through the water tap for 10 seconds, while pouring boiling water from a kettle over the water tap.

Urn also used to warm food (e.g. to warm challah): Not recommended. Must be put away for the holiday.

Water Cooler In addition to pouring boiling water over tap, replace water bottle.

ELECTRIC MIXER

NOT RECOMMENDED

Because of the difficulty in cleaning out the housing of the mixer from fine particles of flour, one should not use their year-round mixer on Pesach. The mixer blades, though, can be cleaned and kashered with hagalah.

METAL TEA KETTLE

HAGALAH (boiling in water)

The same treatment for pots applies here. Although it is uncommon for anything but water to be put into a tea kettle, nevertheless it must be kashered. Tea kettles often sit on the stove, and it is common for them to get spritzed with hot food.

SELF-CLEAN OVENS LIBUN (burning) Remove any visible food. Complete self-cleaning cycle with racks in place.

NON-SELF-CLEANING OVEN LIBUN (burning) Clean all surfaces (walls, floor, doors and racks) thoroughly with a caustic cleanser (e.g. Easy Off). Pay special attention to thermostat, oven window, and edges of the oven chamber. Black discoloration that is flush with the metal need not be removed. Oven should not be used for 24 hours. Place racks in the oven and turn the oven to broil (highest heat) for 60 minutes. A broiler pan that comes in direct contact with food should not be used.

Note: The method of kashering described above is based on the ruling of Rav Aharon Kotler zt"l. However, Rav Moshe Feinstein zt"l ruled that the oven must either be kashered with a blow torch, or an insert should be placed in the oven. Consult your rabbi for guidance.

WARMING DRAWERS LIBUN (burning) Typically warming drawers do not get to libun kal temperature. Therefore, unless one is experienced in kashering with a torch, warming drawers are not recommended for use on Pesach.

MICROWAVES

HAGALAH (boiling in water) (for those who kasher plastic) The microwave must be cleaned well and not used for 24 hours. Glass turntable should be removed and replaced with new kosher-for-Passover surface. A styrofoam cup should be filled with water and boiled in the microwave for 10 minutes. The cup should be refilled and moved to another spot and the process repeated for 10 more minutes. Cardboard or contact paper should be taped over the glass window pane for the duration of Pesach.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS:

LIBUN GAMUR - Burning

HAGALAH - Boiling

IRUY KLI RISHON - Poured Boiling Water

EVEN MELUBENET - Heated Stone

See pages 42-43 for details on these processes.

THE SINK FAUCET (including instant hot)

IRUY (pouring boiling water)
Detach any filters or nozzles.

STAINLESS STEEL, GRANITE, COMPOSITE STONE (E.G. QUARTZ) OR FORMICA COUNTERTOPS

IRUY (pouring boiling water) OR COVERING It is preferable to kasher a countertop by pouring boiling water in conjunction with an even melubenet. There are different opinions as to whether formica (or plastic) countertops can be kashered for Pesach.

CERAMIC TILE COUNTERTOPS

CANNOT BE KASHERED & MUST BE COVERED
The counter should be covered with a water-resistant covering.

REFRIGERATORS, FREEZERS, FOOD SHELVES & PANTRIES

CLEAN & COVER

These areas should be thoroughly cleaned, paying special attention to the edges where crumbs may get trapped. The surfaces should be lined with paper or plastic.

Note: Refrigerators and freezers will operate more efficiently if holes are poked in the lining to allow air flow.

BABY HIGH CHAIR

COVERED

The tray should be covered with contact paper. The seat, legs and bars should be wiped down with a soapy rag.

DISHWASHERS

HAGALAH (boiling in water) Kashering of dishwashers is a complicated process and should only be done in consultation with a halachic authority.

TABLES

COVERED Although wooden tables can be kashered, the common custom is to clean tables well and then cover them.

TABLECLOTHS, KITCHEN GLOVES, APRONS & OTHER FABRIC ITEMS

WASH Fabric items can be kashered by washing them with detergent in a washing machine set on "hot." Items should be checked to make sure no pieces of food remain attached.

LET THEM EAT CAKE:

Ingredient Substitutions Done Right

By Carrie Beylus

A friend of mine once told me that when my kids were little, Pesach would be all about the cleaning — getting every last Oatmeal Square out of the den couch, et cetera; but as they get older it would be about the cooking and food preparation.

Wow, how right she was — is. These days it's so much more than, "What will I do without cereal and pasta?!" Now I need to know how to keep the refrigerator filled with ready and appetizing foods for hungry adults, newly informed teen palates, and the human vacuum cleaner who was once a relatively innocuous, if picky eater.

I've said it before, and it stands repeating: recipes from the other 357 days of the year are the best solutions to this latest conundrum.

All I need for a great menu, a full fridge, and a happy family is some forethought and a little tweaking. The right ingredient substitutions are all it takes. But before you begin swapping out ingredients, carefully read through the recipe you want to adapt. Consider the quantity of the ingredient you'd have to replace. A cake with three cups of flour is not a good candidate for conversion.

Remember, stick with recipes and ingredients you are familiar with (or can adapt quickly), and you'll be assured a tasty and kvetch-free eight days. ■

PESACH FREEDOM, EVEN WHEN WE WEREN'T:

A Passover Sermon from the Warsaw Ghetto

By Dr. Henry Abramson

Clearing the rubble of the devastated Warsaw Ghetto in December 1950, a Polish construction worker made a remarkable discovery: a large tin milk container filled with hundreds of pages of Hebrew and Yiddish manuscripts. The Warsaw Jewish Historical Institute soon determined that the papers constituted the second of three caches hidden by the secret Oneg Shabbat society, which was led by murdered historian Emanuel Ringelblum. The papers documented the life and death of Warsaw Jewry during the Nazi occupation (the first cache was unearthed in 1946 by survivors, but the documents were irretrievably water-damaged; the location of the third cache remains unknown to this day). The precious artifacts, collected by a band of courageous amateur historians, record the Jews' struggle to survive the unimaginable conditions of the Ghetto. Included are the wartime sermons of a major Hasidic leader, Rabbi Kalonymus Kalmish Shapiro (1889–1943), which were eventually published in Israel under the title "Aish Kodesh" (Holy Fire).

Known to his followers as the Piaseczno Rebbe (pronounced Pee-ah-SECH-no), Rabbi Shapiro lived through three Passovers in the Ghetto before he was deported and then shot in during a camp uprising in November 1943. His sermons demonstrate remarkable spiritual heroism as he attempted, week after week, to give his followers strength to endure unfathomable challenges as hunger, typhus, and the random violence that contributed to a widespread sense of despair and hopelessness among Warsaw Jewry. It is challenging to imagine the tribulations face by the Jews laboring under Egyptian servitude, but a glimpse into the twisted world of the Warsaw Ghetto sheds some light on our ancient experience, viewed through a 20th-century lens, and throws into bold relief the incredible courage and compassion of the Piaseczno Rebbe.

The first Passover in the ghetto coincided with the initial construction of the walls that imprisoned the Jews. Frightened by the implications of this German decree, the Rebbe validated their concerns but left room for a ray of hope in a sermon dated April 13, 1940:

We know and believe that all that God does for us – even, God forbid, when God strikes us – is all for our benefit. At the present time we see, however, that we are not solely smitten with physical afflictions but also, Heaven forbid, with those that distance us from the Blessed One. There is neither primary Torah school, nor yeshiva, neither beit midrash in which to pray as a congregation, nor mikveh, and so on. Consequently, a glimmer of doubt, Heaven forbid, arises within us: is it possible that even now God’s intent is for our benefit? If it is for our benefit, God should have chastised us with those things which would have drawn us closer, not with the cessation of Torah study and prayer and, Heaven forbid, the fulfillment of the entire Torah.

The Rebbe found the answer to this troubling question, as always, in a discussion of the weekly parashah. The Torah describes that a kohen is the only person qualified to declare that a particular blemish is tamei or tahor — a scholar, no matter how learned, may only express an opinion:

[A scholar] is incapable of saying if it is in truth a plague or affliction. It is a matter of perception, such that one must say “it resembles a plague,” whereas in truth it is an act of benevolence for the Jewish people by means through which God does good for us.

In other words, the Rebbe maintained that a positive outlook is essential, even when the empirical evidence suggested a more ominous interpretation. His courageous optimism was especially notable because the Rebbe was no stranger to loss. Widowed two years before the war, he witnessed the grievous wounds of his only son, hit by shrapnel from the punishing aerial bombardment by the Luftwaffe in late September 1940. His daughter-in-law, who was standing outside the hospital reciting tehillim for her husband’s recovery, was killed in a subsequent wave of bombings later that same night, and his son ultimately succumbed to his wounds days later.

His only daughter was seized by the Nazis in 1941 and likely gassed at Treblinka; the Rebbe never learned what happened to her.

The Rebbe’s Torah is challenging, even awesome in the traditional sense of the word: inspiring awe. Yet in his last will, a January 1943 cover letter addressed to anyone who found his buried writings, he left a blessing for us all:

Please print in every work that I urge every single Jew to study my books, and the merit of my holy ancestors will stand by every student and his family, now and forever.

The suffering of the Rebbe and the innocent Jews of the Warsaw Ghetto, and the remarkable heroism of Jewish children, serves as a reminder this Passover season of the extremity of Egyptian servitude. Yet in the very center of the maelstrom we see the heroic, selfless service of courageous, visionary leaders who remind us of the eternal promise of Redemption made to our ancestors. May we recall the Torah of their experience, and in so doing, may all judgements be sweetened, and the hiding of the Face finally come to an end with the final Redemption. ■

Henry Abramson, PhD, serves as a Dean of Touro College. He is the author of several books, including Torah from the Years of Wrath, 1939-1943: The Historical Context of the Aish Kodesh and the Jewish History in Daf Yomi podcast on the OU AllDaf app.

Q & A:

What Happens if I Find Chametz on Pesach? Well, that depends...

By Rabbi Eli Gersten

Here are a few questions to keep in mind, since the answer to each can affect the ruling.

Did you sell your chametz with your rabbi?

If the chametz was in your possession from before Pesach and you sold it through your rabbi, then in all likelihood the chametz item was included in the sale as well. Although the chametz was not locked up in the cabinet as it should have been, it was still included in the sale since there is usually a statement in the contract that all chametz is considered sold regardless of its location. Please check with your rabbi. The chametz should be pushed with a broom or a pole into the closet; do not use your hands, since we are concerned that if you pick up the chametz, you might forget and eat it.

Was the chametz found on yom tov or Chol Ha'moed?

Chametz found on Shabbos or yom tov is muktzah, and may not be moved. This presents a problem, since you are not permitted to dwell in a room that contains chametz out of concern you might forget and eat it. You must place a bowl or pot over the chametz as a reminder. If the chametz was found on Chol Ha'moed, and you sold your chametz with your rabbi, the chametz may not be directly picked up and placed in the cabinet but should instead be kicked or pushed with a broom until concealed.

Was the item purchased on Pesach?

If the chametz item was purchased on Pesach or even on erev Pesach after the chametz sale, it must be burned at the first opportunity. As explained above, it cannot be moved, and it certainly may not be burned on Shabbos or yom tov. Instead, it should be covered with a utensil until after yom tov, at which point it must be burned. If the purchased item was only kitniyos (does not contain any of the five grains — wheat, barley, spelt, rye or oats), such as a bottle of corn oil, it may be put away until after Pesach. A kashrus expert should be consulted, because some might contain chametz even though it is not obvious.

What do I do when a package that included chametz was delivered on my porch on Pesach?

You may not leave chametz on your property even if you have no intention of acquiring it. If the delivery took place on yom tov, you must cover it until after Pesach. On Chol Ha'moed you must take a broom or a pole and push it off your property. You may not pick it up with your hands. The Mishnah Berurah writes that just picking up chametz on Pesach even without intent to acquire it is forbidden. You are only permitted to pick up chametz with the intent to burn it. ■

ALMOND BREEZE ORIGINAL
RICE DREAM CLASSIC ORIGINAL
SOY DREAM ORIGINAL ENRICHED

PLEASE NOTE THE FOLLOWING POINTS:

- Many of the products contain kitniyot, some as the primary ingredient.
- Some of the products may contain minor ingredients that are possibly, though unlikely, produced from chametz-based raw materials. All such ingredients are used at a less than 1:60 ratio.
- Liquid versions of these products are preferable to their powdered counterparts.
- Products that contain flavors should only be provided when no unflavored alternative exists.
- Products should be purchased before Passover and stored and maintained separately from Kosher-for-Passover Foods.
- A few – not all – of the Ensure, Glucerna, Pediasure and Jevity products contain oat fiber; the OU has determined that the fiber is not chametz, and the products are permitted to be consumed on Passover.

"Plainview is the perfect fit for our family. We were embraced by the community right away, & Plainview offers us the Jewish experience we are looking for & all the benefits of living in central Long Island.

Our family is so happy here."

-Rebecca & Eric Moskowitz

"When thinking about the community we wanted to settle down and grow our family in, Plainview checked all of the boxes for us - welcoming, intimate, inclusive, modern, and young. While we moved in during a global pandemic, we continue to be welcomed with open arms. We are so happy to be here."

-Julie & Josh Abergel

"Everyone has been so warm and welcoming. We felt like a part of the community as soon as we moved in."

- Shira & Adam Rosenbaum

Oral Hygiene (Toothpaste, Mouthwash) & Flavored Lip Treatment (Lipstick, Lip Balm) Products:

Rabbinical authorities disagree as to whether kosher certification of these items is required (both for Passover and year-round). Consult your Rabbi. Please see product pages in the Passover Guide for OU certified toothpaste.

GUIDELINES FOR MEDICINES

1. Exercise extreme caution and consult with your doctor and rabbi before making a decision not to take a medicine.

2. Known and tested medications in the form of creams, non-chewable pills and injections may be owned, used and consumed on Pesach, even if they contain chametz or kitniyot, since they are inedible. This covers most medicines used by adults. However, if an equally effective chametz-free alternative is available or procurable, this should be used instead.

A. It is permissible to grind pills and mix the powder into food items so that a child can take medicine on Pesach. However, a doctor must be consulted to make sure that the child is getting the correct dosage and that the potency of the pill is not compromised by altering its consistency.

3. Liquid medicines, chewable pills and pills coated with a flavored glaze are considered palatable and may contain chametz.

Also gelcaps may present a problem because they may contain non-kosher edible gelatin. Therefore:

A. If possible, they should be replaced, under the direction of a doctor, with a non-chewable, uncoated pill.

B. If substitution is not possible and the person is in a state of sakana or safek sakana (any possible danger to human life), the medication may be owned and consumed. The same applies if the condition is not yet a safek sakana but may deteriorate to that point. A rabbi should be consulted as to whether it is preferable to purchase the medicine before or during Pesach, and as to how to dispose of the medicine once the danger passes.

C. If substitution is not possible and a doctor determines that there is no possibility of sakana if the person does not take the medicine, a rabbi should be consulted. He may be able to determine that the medicine does not contain chametz and/or kitniyot, or he may decide that the medicine may be consumed due to the seriousness of the patient's condition.

4. Unless an equivalent alternative is available, medicinal items which contain kitniyot are permitted for people who are ill. Questions on this issue should be directed to your rabbi.

5. These guidelines do not address the more general prohibition of consuming medicines on Shabbat and yom tov.

SEFIRAT HAOMER

Sign up for the OU daily sefirah reminder email @ www.ou.org/sefirah

Sefirah is the counting of seven complete weeks from the second evening of Pesach until Shavuot. The count, which takes place after nightfall for the following day, is preceded by the blessing only if done in the evening and no days have been missed in the count.

Visit www.ou.org/sefirah to receive an email reminder to count each day. Emails are pre-programmed to go out on each of the 49 days of the Omer to help make sure you don't forget to count!
