PEARLS OF WISDOM FROM THE PARSHAH

The Jewish People's Married Name

פִּינְחָס בֶּן אֶלְעָזָר בֶּן אַהֲרֹן הִכָּהֵן הַשֵּׁיב אֶת חַמְתִּי מֵעַל בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּקִנְאוֹ אֶת קִנְאַתִּי
בְּתוֹכְכֶם וְלֹא כָלִיתִי אֶת בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּקִנְאַתִּי: (במדבר כה, יא)

Pinchas son of Elazar son of Aharon Hakohen turned back My anger from upon the Jewish people by acting zealously on My behalf in their midst. Thus I did not destroy the Jewish people in My zealouslyness. (Bemidbar 25:11)

The Jewish people sinned many times during the forty years they were in the Midbar.

וַיִּנְסוּ אֹתִי זֶה עָשָׂר פְּעָמִים – They tried Me these ten times.<sup>1</sup>

Despite all these mishaps, they were always saved in the end.

The first sin was making the Eigel. As the Kuzari explains, this was not a simple act of idolatry. Nevertheless, in this context, we will view this sin from a simple perspective. The Jewish people took a golden calf and said about it אלהיך ישראל –

“These are your gods, O Israel.”<sup>2</sup> Consequently, Hashem sought to destroy them. However, Hashem hinted to Moshe that if he will pray for them, it will save them. And so it was.

Then was the sin of the Meraglim. Again, Hashem sought to destroy the Jewish people. Again, Moshe prayed for them, and this saved them.

And so it was with Korach's rebellion. Hashem sought to destroy the people, and here again, Hashem gave them a chance to avert the disaster. Aharon Hakohen stopped the Angel of Death, and most people were saved.

There was one sin that was different. When the

Jewish people sinned with the women of Moav (as per the wicked plan of Bilaam), Hashem was going to wipe out the Jewish people right then and there, without waiting for prayer, without speaking to Moshe and Aharon. Only the quick action of Pinchas stopped this.

פִּינָחָס בֶּן אֶלְעָזָר בֶּן אַהֲרֹן הִכְהֵן הָשִׁיב אֶת חֲמָתִי מֵעַל בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּקִנְאוֹ אֶת קִנְאַתִּי בְּתוֹכְכֶם וְלֹא כָלִיתִי אֶת בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּקִנְאַתִּי – Pinchas son of Elazar son of Aharon Hakohen turned back My anger from upon the Jewish people by acting zealously on My behalf in their midst. Thus I did not destroy the Jewish people in My zealously.

Pinchas acted out the zealously that Hashem was going to. Had Pinchas not done so, it would have been the end.

Why was this sin so very severe? Why was it worse than the sin of the Eigel?

Let's say there is a fight in the family. One spouse acts wrongly toward the other, and a fierce quarrel breaks out. They might even break windows in their rage. But in the end, they make up and things quiet down again. Even if it doesn't happen immediately, when Erev Yom Kippur comes, they will work things out and life will go on. The sin of the Eigel, the rebellion of Korach and the faithless report of the Meraglim were all serious sins. But Hashem forgave us nonetheless. This is how it is when things stay inside the family.

The sin with the women of Moav was a totally different story, It was not "within the family." It was an act that entailed leaving the Jewish home. Going out of the family circle. This was an unforgivable sin. This is why Pinchas needed to act out Hashem's zealously. If Pinchas had not picked up the spear to do what he did, Hashem would have needed to act, and it would have been the end.

This is because a Jew is not someone who puts on tefillin, or even someone who has yiras Shamayim. A Jew is like Hashem's wife, so to speak. [And if the wife leaves home to go to someone else, the damage is irreparable.]

This explains another point as well. After the story with Pinchas, Hashem gave a new name to the Jewish people.

חֲנוּךְ מִשְׁפַּחַת הַחֲנוּכִי לְפִלּוּא מִשְׁפַּחַת הַפְּלֹאִי –
Chanoch of the Chanochi family, Palu of the Palui family.<sup>3</sup>

Hashem called them by His own name, so to speak. Every Jewish family got a yud and the end of their family name, and a hei at the beginning, to show that they are clean and pure. י"ה is one of Hashem's Names.

Let's say a woman from the Stein family marries a man from the Gold family. Before she marries she is "Chani Stein." After she marries she is called "Chani Gold." She is "Mrs. Gold" now. This is how it was with the names of Chanoch, and Palu, and all the others. Before the Giving of the Torah, they were called the Chanoch family and the Palu family. But after the Giving of the Torah, when the Jewish people became like Hashem's wife, so to speak, He called each family by His Name.

This is also the meaning of the words we say in Tefilah: – "ושמך הגדול והקדוש עלינו קראת: Tefilah:"

Your great and holy Name upon us.” The name יהודי, “Jew,” is the four letters of Hashem’s Name, plus the letter daled, which represents דלות, “meagerness.” [We make ourselves small and “meager” in relation to Hashem.]

The literal translation of the name יהודי, “Jew,” is “Mrs. Hashem.”

What does this mean?

When a woman is called “Mrs. Gold” it means that even if she works and even if she has a good position in the company, the center of her life is her husband and children. She goes to work in order to support the family. The real center of her life is the home.

So it is with a Jew. His life is one of partnership with Hashem. He gets up in the morning and goes to sleep at night with Hashem. He eats with Hashem. And so with everything he does. Hakadosh Baruch Hu is like our “husband,” so to speak. He is the center of our life. ●

Your Inner Zealot

בְּקִנְאוֹ אֶת קִנְאָתִי בְּתוֹכְכֶם. (במדבר כה, יא)

By acting zealously on My behalf in their midst. (Bemidbar 23:11)

Sefer Mesilas Yesharim explains what it means to be a קנאי, a “zealot”:

Zealousness is a subcategory of love for Hashem. It is when a person is zealous for Hashem’s holy Name. He hates those who hate Hashem and attempts to subdue them any way he can, so that Hashem will be served and His honor will be increased....

It is obvious that someone who loves his friend cannot bear to see his friend being hit or cursed. He will surely come to his friend’s assistance. Similarly, someone who loves Hashem’s Name cannot bear to see it being desecrating, chas v’shalom, and His commandments being transgressed.<sup>1</sup>

Now, there is a mitzvah in the Torah of הוֹכֵחַ – “You shall surely reprove your fellow.”<sup>2</sup> This mitzvah requires us to care, to make sure that also our fellow Jew keeps mitzvos and follows Hashem’s ways. But zealousness goes beyond this. Zealousness means that if a person sees others transgressing Hashem’s Will, he cannot hold himself back and keep his quiet. He gets intensely stirred up, his heart is on fire, he furiously protests the chillul Hashem. He pours out fiery wrath on the enemies of Hashem even if it entails taking exceptional and unconventional action.

Of course, a kannai needs to be very careful that his protest should be made at the right place and the right time and the right way, so his act of zealousness should in fact increase Heaven’s honor and sanctify Hashem’s Name, rather than causing a desecration of His Name.

Being a kannai for the Name of Hashem is not limited to vigorous protests against others. It applies to oneself as well. If a person sees that the Yetzer Hara is getting the better of him and pushing him into a certain aveirah, he should forcefully and powerfully arouse the spirit of zealousness against himself. He should rebuke the Yetzer Hara, and set limits and precautions on himself, so he will not do the sin again.

For instance, Chazal recount<sup>3</sup> that a certain pious man saw a hole in his field’s fence on Shabbos and made a mental decision to mend the hole. Then he remembered that it is Shabbos and such decisions are not to be made. So he resolved never to repair that hole.

1 Mesilas Yesharim 19.

2 Vayikra 19:17.

3 Shabbos 150b.

This is an example of a person being a kannai against himself. When he saw that he had stumbled, that he had belittled the honor of Shabbos, he penalized himself to never repair the hole in his field's fence, even if it will cause him great loss. In this way he showed how much he cared about the holiness of Shabbos and the honor of Shamayim.

Another example is the story of a certain bachur in Volozhin yeshivah, a talmid chacham, whose friend asked him a question in Halachah in the middle of a meal, and he didn't know the answer. He was so perturbed by his own lack of knowledge that he got up in the middle of the meal and hurried to the beis midrash to sit and learn with tremendous constancy for seven years, until he became a great and outstanding talmid chacham.

This is another example of a person being zealous against himself. He felt that he had slighted Heaven's honor by his lack in Torah knowledge, and did not rest until he perform a great and disproportionate act. This act was directed not toward others but toward himself, in zealousness for Hashem's Name.

This is how it should be for anyone in whose heart burns love for Hashem. His zealousness should be directed primarily toward himself, for every way in which he feels he is slighting the honor of Hakadosh Baruch Hu and His Torah. He will thereby increase the honor of Heaven, like Pinchas and Eliyahu Hanavi. ●

PARSHAH TOPIC

True Peace

פִּינָחָס בֶּן אֶלְעָזָר בֶּן אַהֲרֹן הִכְהֵן הָשִׁיב אֶת חַמְתִּי מֵעַל בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּקִנְאוֹ אֶת קִנְאָתִי בְּתוֹכָם וְלֹא כָלִיתִי אֶת בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּקִנְאָתִי. לָכֵן אֶמַר הַנְּנִי נִתֵּן לּוֹ אֶת בְּרִיתִי שְׁלוֹם. וְהִיְתָה לּוֹ וּלְזֵרְעוֹ אַחֲרָיו בְּרִית כְּהֵנֶת עוֹלָם תַּחַת אֲשֶׁר קָנָא לְאֵלֶיקוֹ וַיִּכְפֹּר עַל בְּנֵי יִשְׂרָאֵל: (במדבר כה, יא-יג)

Pinchas, son of Elazar, son of Aharon Hakohen, turned back My anger from upon the Jewish people, by acting zealously on My behalf in their midst. Thus I did not destroy the Jewish people in My zealousness. Therefore say, "Behold, I am giving him My covenant of peace." It will be for him and for his descendants after him as an eternal covenant of priesthood, since he was zealous for his G-d and atoned for the Jewish people. (Bemidbar 25:11-13)

Peace and Priesthood

What Pinchas did was among the most outstanding acts in Jewish history.

We all know that Kehunah was granted to Aharon

Hakohen. He received priesthood for himself and for his descendants throughout the generations. But Pinchas himself could not thereby be a kohen. Because when Hashem appointed Aharon to be kohen, He said to him that he and his four sons will be kohanim. But Pinchas had already been born before that. Thus, Pinchas was not born to a kohen and also was not appointed as a kohen.

That was Pinchas' situation. All who will be born afterward will become kohanim by paternal inheritance. Only he did not thereby become a kohen.

However, Pinchas opened a new door to kebunah. He received a special gift from Hashem, Who made with him a ברית כהונת עולם, an eternal covenant of kebunah. Hashem said to him, so to speak: I love you and I want to make a bris with you and your descendants, that you should be connected to Me forever and ever.

Hashem gave him two gifts: peace and priesthood. Pinchas and his descendants will be kohanim forever, and they also will have shalom forever.

What is shalom, peace? All sicknesses are a result of an imbalance in a person's body. And Hakadosh Baruch Hu promised Pinchas that within his physical body, and surely in his spirit and soul, there will always be peace and balance. This is why Pinchas lives forever. As the Midrash says,<sup>1</sup> Pinchas is Eliyahu Hanavi, who never died. He lives forever and he will bring Mashiach.

Pinchas Saved Us

What did Pinchas do to deserve all this?

בְּקִנְאוֹ אֶת קִנְאָתִי בְּתוֹכְכֶם וְלֹא כָלִיתִי אֶת בְּנֵי
יִשְׂרָאֵל בְּקִנְאָתִי – By acting zealously on My behalf in their midst. Thus I did not destroy the Jewish people in My zealotry.

Bilaam was the great enemy of the Jewish people. Balak hired him for money to wipe out the Jewish people and not leave a trace of them. Bilaam indeed tried in all sorts of ways to do so.

He tried to curse them with the impure forces that were at his service. Then he tried to get Hashem to punish them by pointing out their sins. He tried other methods, too. There was nothing he did not try in order to harm the Jewish people. And he did not succeed.

After trying everything, Bilaam said to Balak: Listen, we must admit that there really is no way for I or anyone else to destroy the Jewish people. The only one who can do it is the Jewish people itself.

כָּל כְּלֵי יוֹצֵר עֲלֶיךָ לֹא יִצְלָח – Any means brought against you will not succeed.<sup>2</sup>

There is nothing in the world that can destroy the Jewish people except for the Jewish people itself.

So Bilaam advised Balak that if he succeeds in getting them to sin by committing zenus, they will thereby destroy themselves, because Hashem will wipe them out totally.

Balak took Bilaam's "wise" advice. He hired the Midianite women and they caused the Jews to sin. As a result, Hashem was about to wipe out the Jewish people, if Pinchas had not picked up a spear and attacked Zimri, who was sinning with the Midianite princess, and killed both of them. This is what saved the Jewish people forever.

And what reward did Pinchas receive?

He became Hashem's friend, and he became Eliyahu Hanavi, who lives forever. Every time Hashem makes a covenant with a Jewish child through bris milah, when a Jewish child becomes connected to Hashem, Pinchas (Eliyahu) is there, to testify that the Jewish people remain connected to Hakadosh Baruch Hu.

Evaluating Aveiros

Let's take a deeper look at the incident with Pinchas and Zimri. As we know, Zimri committed a sin with a non-Jewish woman named Kozbi, the daughter of Tzur, who was a prince of Midian.

There are two ways we can evaluate aveiros. We can look at the severity of the sin, or we can look at its punishment. They are not always commensurate. Regarding the severity of Zimri's sin, the Rambam says as follows:

1 Yalkut Shimoni 771.

2 Yeshayahu 54:17.

This sin [of relations with a non-Jewish woman], although it is not punishable by death at the hands of beis din, should not be treated lightly. Rather, it causes a loss that no other forbidden gender relationship causes. This is because a child born from another forbidden gender relationship is considered the father's son or daughter in every way, and is considered a Jew, although he is [in most cases] a bastard.

However, a child born from a [Jewish father who had relations with a] non-Jewish woman is not considered the father's son or daughter.... This causes attachment to the non-Jews, from whom Hakadosh Baruch Hu separated us, and causes turning away from Hashem....<sup>3</sup>

The Rambam taught us here that the sin of relations with a non-Jewess is worse than all the arayos, all the forbidden gender relationships mentioned in the Torah. There is no sin as bad as a Jewish man having gender relations with a non-Jewish woman.

Why is it so bad?

Because there is no physical or spiritual way by which a Jew can turn himself into a non-Jew. Even if he eats pork and every other forbidden food, even if he desecrates Shabbos many times, he remains a Jew. No part of him turns non-Jewish. When he does teshuvah, he retains the potential to become one of the greatest Jews of the generation.

There is only one way that a Jew can take a part of himself and make it non-Jewish, and that is by having gender relations with a non-Jewess. In such a case, his child, who is a part of his being and essence, is a non-Jew. This child will never be able to return to the Jewish people. Even if he converts to Judaism, he will become a new person, not the child who was born to his father. Consequently, this child is lost to the Jewish people forever.

Now let us consider the punishment that the Torah accorded to this sin.

If a married Jewish woman commits adultery, she is liable for the death punishment. And so it is with other forms of arayos. By contrast, the Torah states no punishment for he who has relations with a non-Jewess. If he will be brought before beis din, they will not hear the case, because there is no punishment they can give.

Furthermore, where does it even say in the Torah that it is forbidden? This is subject to a disagreement among the Rishonim. Some say that the source is the verse that states לֹא תִתְחַתֵּן בָּם, "You shall not marry them."<sup>4</sup> Others say that this verse refers only to women of the seven nations of Canaan, but the prohibition on marrying women from other nations is not mentioned in the Torah. It is rather a Halachah l'Moshe miSinai; it is part of the Oral Torah. It is alluded to only in a verse in Sefer Yechezkel.

The Shelah Hakadosh explains this latter view by saying that such an act is so repugnant to Hakadosh Baruch Hu that He did not even want to mention it in the Torah. ●
